

United States Interagency Council on Homelessness

No one should experience homelessness. No one should be without a safe, stable place to call home.

Katy Miller Regional Coordinator

Katy Miller is a Regional Coordinator on the National Initiatives team at the United States Interagency Council on Homelessness (USICH). She serves as a principal representative and bridge between the work of the full Council and states and communities. In this role, she is responsible for facilitating the strategic implementation of Opening Doors specifically in Alaska, California, Idaho, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington state.

Katy has been working for more than 18 years as an advocate, housing provider, and funder of homeless housing and services in Seattle - King County. As a public and private funder for the last nine years she has been instrumental in forming funding partnerships to create thousands of housing opportunities for individuals and families in the region. Katy has also played an important role in launching new initiatives and funding resources to help people move out of homelessness into permanent housing, such as the Washington Families Fund, Landlord Liaison Project, Career Connections, and the Client Care Coordination system for targeted recruitment of the most vulnerable and high utilizers of expensive systems into permanent supportive housing. Katy is passionate about creating innovative connections and solutions towards ending homelessness.
